THE WHITE DEATH

Of all the natural phenomena peculiar to the Rocky mountain region none is more strange, or terrible than the mysterious storm known to the Indians as "the white death". Scientific men have never yet had an opportunity of investigating it, because it comes at the most unexpected times and may keep away from a certain locality for years. Well-read men who have been through it say that it is really a frozen fog. But where the fog comes from is more than anyone can say. This phenomenon occurs most frequently in the northern part of Colorado, in Wyoming, and occasionally in Montana.

About two years ago a party of three women and two men were crossing North Park in a wagon in the month of February. The air was bitterly cold, but dry as a bone and motionless. The sun shone with almost startling brilliancy. As the five people drove along over the crisp snow they did not experience the least cold, but really felt most comfortable, and rather enjoyed the trip. Mountain peaks fifty miles away could be seen as distinctly as the pine trees beside the roadside.

Suddenly one of the women put her hand up to her face and remarked that something had stung her. Then other members of the party did the same thing, although not a sign of an insect could be seen. All marveled greatly at this. A moment later they noticed that the distant mountains were disappearing behind a cloud of mist. Mist in Colorado in February? Surely there must be some mistake. But there was no mistake, because within ten minutes a gentle wind began to blow and the air became filled with fine particles of something that scintillated like diamond dust in the sunshine. Still the people drove on until they came to a cabin where a man signaled them to stop. With his head tied up in a bundle of mufflers, he rushed out and handed the driver a piece of paper on which was written: "Come into the house quick, or this storm will kill all of you. Don't talk outside here."

Of course no time was lost in getting under cover and putting the horses in the stable. But they were a little too late, for in less than an hour the whole party was sick with violent coughs and fever. Before the next morning one of the women died with all the symptoms of pneumonia. The others were violently ill of it, but managed to pull through after long sickness. - Aisle's Magazine

New Kind of Hydraulic

From the Yukon (Dawson) Sun 12th inst: Several sleigh loads of machinery are expected from the outside today, which may be the initiatory step toward the revolutionizing of the mining industry of the north. The consignment is for the N.A.T.&T. Co., and consists of an experimental plant called the Adams hydraulic lift. It will be installed at once at No. 63 below on Bonanza, under the personal supervision of J.H. Adams, its inventor.

The plant was built in San Francisco especially for the Klondike test. The plan of operation is different from the ordinary hydraulic work, and as the name implies it is in the nature of a lift, whereby gravel can be raised into a sluice box from a point many-feet below. Its principle is similar to a centrifugal pump. The apparatus contains two main pipes, one of which by gravity plays on the bed of gravel and forces it upward through another pipe into a sluice box. Mr. Adams in an interview, said:

"The introduction of the invention is merely an experiment, and much difficulty is apprehended in bringing it to a successful basis of operation. The objectionable features in the north are many.

"In the first place where we intend to experiment the lay of the ground prohibits a bedrock flume to carry away the residue from the works. Again, where heretofore the gravity system has been employed the water must be pumped on Bonanza.

"The plants are now successfully operating in all parts of the world. I have opened up propositions in South Africa, South America, Mexico and Korea. In every case the ground has been handled economically and with great profit to the owners.

"If the results from the Bonanza efforts are all that are anticipated, an order for a number of mammoth plants will at once be given, which will be operated in various parts of the Yukon.

"The beneficial results that will, under these circumstances, accrue to the mining industry of the country cannot be estimated. Ground that is now considered absolutely worthless will pay big returns. To the owners of ground that is fairly rich it will men increased profits.

"The general production of the country would be greatly increased in the saving of many millions of dollars which now go to waste by the present system of mining.

"The N.A.T.&T. Co., realizes the vast benefits to be derived if the idea is successful, and on this basis is willing to spend considerable money and time to demonstrate the feasibility of the new invention."
